Life Bell Floor

Remember those perfectly aged pair of jeans worn to the point of supple softness and edgy pride? That pretty much sums up the Life Bell floor lamp. Designed by Matteo Ugolini, this version of Life holds a fluted bell-shaped shade with scalloped edges perched atop an industrial chic metal base. A bit of color is added to white denim into which a pattern is cut with a laser—seemingly at random, though this is far from the case. The fabric is then stonewashed to add that feel of near mystical chic that made those jeans (and this fixture) look better and better over time.
