Mono Pendant

Design by: Sotirios Papadopoulos

Taking a cue from Emily Dickinson, professor/student design team Sotirios Papadopoulos and Giovanna Colapristi of ABAVerona (the Academy of Fine Arts in Verona) envisioned a poetic idea of daylight's illumination when he created the Mono pendant. Its white fiberglass shade fairly floats above its rust-colored iron wire frame. Here's proof how Dickinson's eloquence inspired this slant of light: "Make me a picture of the sun—/ So I can hang it in my room—/ And make believe I'm getting warm/ When others call it 'Day!'"
